

PORTABILITY AND CONVERSION OVERVIEW

The life insurance program provided through your employer gives employees whose voluntary group life insurance coverage is ending the flexibility of continuing their coverage under one of two options: conversion or portability. Applications for conversion or portability must be made within 31 days of the date of termination of your coverage. The following is a high-level overview of the two options*.

Additional Information	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> There is no cash value associated with a portable life insurance benefit. Portability rates increase with age, and are based on five- year increments. The maximum portable amount for an employee cannot exceed 5 times annual earnings. Portability coverage terminates when reaching the limiting age, at which time the insured has the option to convert to continue coverage. Employee and/or spouse must have been insured under the group policy or the policy it replaced for at least one year in order to port coverage. The child is eligible for portability as long as the employee and/or spouse also ports their coverage. Portability is not an option if insurance is terminated due to sickness, illness, retirement or termination of the group policy. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Replaces group life insurance with an individual whole life policy with the opportunity to build cash value.
